Administrative History

The Study Club was a study and literary society comprised of women from Moose Jaw. These women met monthly to have discussions about historical and literary topics. Typically, the topics for one year would fall under one overarching theme, such as Ancient Greece or Italian Art. The members rotated hosting and leading the discussions.

Scope and Content

This collection is comprised of The Study Club's yearly programs from 1925-1953. The programs provide details about their meetings, such as date, topic, hostess and leader. The programs also offer lists of club officers and members.
